

Winterbourne Junior Girls' School

Year 4 Newsletter

Week ending Friday 6th November 2020

This week: A welcome return to school after the short half-term break. We have started our investigation of the science, history and geography of Chocolate in our topic titled "Should we stop eating chocolate?". We conducted an experiment to investigate how quickly sugar in different forms (granulated white, granulated Demerara, fruit sugar and icing sugar) dissolves in water. We discovered the historical origins of chocolate with the Olmec people and how the Spanish brought it to Europe and beyond. Did you know that chocolate was originally a thick, spicy, Mesoamerican drink? Neither did we!

Curriculum

English: Writing a setting description based on Charlie and the Chocolate Factory.

Math: Multiplication—3-digit numbers by 2-digit numbers.

Science: Should we stop eating chocolate?
