This week's Learning

During the commencement of our Geography Unit: European Study, pupils have looked at the things which help to define a place. They have begun to look at the natural characteristics of each continent by researching: weather and temperature, land and soil and plant and animal life.

In English, they have begun writing a newspaper report based on an event in the class novel and in Maths, they have begun drawing and measuring angles using a protractor.

In PSHE, they identified the friendship groups to which they belong and discussed ways of managing friendships.

In RE, pupils discussed the concept of forgiveness, identifying emotions associated with forgiving others and being forgiven by others.
