Today, we were very privileged to receive a talk from Gilbert Clarke about his life and experiences. Born in Jamaica, he joined the RAF in 1943, travelled to The United States for training and then sailed to England in a large convoy that came under attack from U-Boats. Now 96, he has 5 children and many grandchildren. The girls used the information from the talk to start writing a biography about him as part of their history topic on remembering the Windrush generation.
