This Week...

English Charlie and the Chocolate Factory

Factory

We started our class reader on Tuesday. The girls started writing their descriptions of Charlie using Alan Peat sentences as well as writing their monologues.

Mathematics

We worked on division and multiplication both with renaming and remainders as well as word problems.

Science

Our discussions focused on the food value of chocolate and why chocolate eating must be balanced with healthy activities. For the main task, we examined chocolate wrappers to find out how many calories there are in every 100 grams of that product. We drew bar chart to show which has the most/least energy.

History

We explored the history of chocolate: where it originated and the story behind its introduction in Europe in the middle of the 16th century.

Design & Technology

The girls conducted market research for their chocolate products by collecting and studying information about what people want, need, and buy.
