English

This week, the girls wrote letters of advice to a character in our class book, Sylvia, who is missing her aunt and worries about her welfare.

After discussing and noting many useful ideas, they used words and phrases to give advice and to persuade the reader of their view point.

In Science, Year 6 conducted research to develop their understanding about the naturalists, and the work they do. They explored the work of three influential Naturalists of modern time.

In maths this week, the girls assessed their knowledge of ratio by completing their review units. The girls were confidently able to apply their skills to word problems and use bar models to show and explain their working out. Next week we will be starting a new topic: Algebra.
